Beeman, M. Clinton Mason, Berdinand V. Krause.

Smoke Nuisance. After some preliminary remarks, President Haviland called for a report from Chairman John D. Hall of the committee on public improvements regarding the smoke nuisance from the N. Y., N. H. & H. locomotives in the rear of the buildings on Shetucket street. Mr. Hall read a letter from one of the officials of the road, in which the railroad man wrote that he believed that conditions had been changed so that there was very little moke nuisance in that locality now, and he nuisance in that locality now, and he thought the instructions to the train-men would correct the nuisance.

Mr. Hall said that his own inquiries sance had been corrected, while others considered it was as had as ever. Some of the company engineers who have been here, said Mr. Hall, have decided been here, said Mr. Hall, have decided that it was not practiable to adopt his suggestion of putting in an extra track down to the freight house, since they would have to go out some into the river to do it, but Mr. Hall could see no great obstacle to putting in this extra track, and if the extra track kere provided the switching in the busy hours of the day could be dispensed with. The railroad company had suggested the possibility of extending with. The railroad company gested the possibility of gested the possibility of extending their dock out into the river, but Mr. Hall said he didn't believe this could be done without a strong objection from other dock owners, and he thought it would be well to keep on pushing to get the extra track to the freight shed on the dock.
